How is PageGate Used/Customer Quote:

PageGate is integrated on one server with a dedicated Modem. Mission critical service dispatching software sends ASCII text regarding service calls or dispatcher queries out to a "share" on a Linux platform running Samba. the W2K Server queries the "share" every minute looking for new ASCII file input and if it finds it, cross tables the query to our alpha pager directly (cross between employee number and pager access data) and "sends" the text page out over the modem.
