Industry: Technical

Business / Organization Description:

Systems Supply is a computer service and networking company with a staff of technicians that are responsible for servicing local businesses computer networks.

How is PageGate Used/Customer Quote:

Systems Supply's office support staff uses NotePager Net to alert technicians, of any urgent service calls when they are on the road. This allows all the of the technicians to be rerouted to service calls in their area, in a timely fashion. In addition the web interface has allowed for technicians to send messages through an Internet connection from customer locations, to other technicians that are on service calls. Increasing the communication and efficiency of Systems Supply's technical staff.

"NotePager Net is very reliable and is the quickest way for the support staff to reach the technicians in the field. It has been really convenient and has substantially increased overall communication."
